

Angela Antenore, M.Ed

Senior Consultant & Facilitator

Santa Barbara, CA

Angela Antenore (an-ten-or-e) provides consultation, coaching and facilitation to help make organizations better for the people in them so they are engaged and get work done. Angela combines her experience in business with her background in education and psychology to employ leadership and organizational effectiveness strategies with her clients.

Angela has a unique background including international consulting experience as well as hands-on experience as a director, manager, small business owner, and educator. In these roles, she has developed a common-sense approach to management and leadership. Working in corporate, public, and not for profit organizations, she has experience incorporating the perspectives and contributions of employees from diverse backgrounds and experiences and at all levels including executives, managers, line-staff as well as elected officials.

Angela has extensive experience in helping leaders build high performing teams and developing their members. Her focus is how leaders can best perform to deliver results, excel in their roles, and engage and motivate their teams.

Boundless.
