

Chuck Stahl

Senior Consultant & Facilitator

Cincinnati, OH

Chuck has spent thirty years in a variety of information technology leadership roles, including corporate leadership, consulting, and business ownership. Chuck's experiences have provided him with a unique balance of strategic perspective and practical, hands-on effectiveness.

Chuck spent ten years with Procter & Gamble (P&G) in leadership positions of increasing responsibility and later consulted with the company, to enhance methodologies and team performance. P&G provided Chuck with understanding of how multi-national companies manage information technology and the vision and discipline required to be successful as a leader.

After P&G, Chuck started two companies, itelligence inc. North American and Titanium Consulting Group. He rapidly grew both companies and eventually divested each one. For each enterprise, Chuck had to manage rapid growth, major improvement, and organization and talent development.

As a consultant, Chuck has specialized in project management consulting, having led IT strategy projects that drove organizational and technology architecture changes in companies. He has designed and facilitated workshops for project management methodologies and business analysis/process improvement.

Currently, Chuck is a facilitator for Twelve Mavens, providing a leadership development forum for company owners.
